

In front of the Fontana Trevi, Rome

December 10, 2018

Ciao Tutti!

I hope you are enjoying the holiday season—my favorite time of year! As some of you know, I've been living in Viterbo, Italy since August, where I'm spending the 2018-19 school year through School Year Abroad (SYA). It's been an incredible experience so far: learning the Italian language, history and culture, engaging in global citizenship issues, volunteering with Mensa Caritas and UNICEF and absorbing the absolutely gorgeous fashion here. ShortStory inspiration all around!

Being in Italy has meant I've had to take a mini-break from designing ShortStory Shorts this year, but we will be back in action in 2019 with some great new inspired styles in luxe Italian fabrics! In the meantime, I hope you are still rocking your holiday corduroy shorts from our 2018 Holiday Collection with tights, boots, flats and stilettos. They are such a cute, chic and comfy choice for the holidays. (P.S. we still have a few pairs left if you are interested—send me an email at info@shortstoryshorts.com!)

Finally, as a special gesture for this season of giving, we will be sending the remainder of our SS18 Collection inventory to Fundación JuanFe in Cartagena, Colombia where I volunteered last spring which supports young, underprivileged mothers and their children in a tough area of the country.

There is truly so much to be grateful in this world. On behalf ShortStory, I wish you each and every one of you much merriness this December and an amazing 2019.

See you again soon—in a great pair of shorts!

XOXO Carolina

Helping out at Fundación JuanFe (Cartagena, Colombia)